- 1 (a) Having successfully completed all her courses, Angela has recently qualified as a solicitor and her name has been added to the roll. She wants to get a practising certificate in order to start a job she has been offered with a law firm. She checks the Law Society website and sees that she has to pay a fee of £100 but that the fee for someone applying for the first time is £75. Angela submits her application with a fee of £75.

Explain how the Legal Services Act 1974 will apply to Angela in this situation. [10]

- (b) Khalid, a solicitor whose name is on the roll, was suspended a year ago for a period of six months for having an inappropriate relationship with a client. As his suspension is about to end Khalid applies for a new practising certificate. Although his application is completed correctly the Law Society refuses to grant him a new certificate, saying its decision is in the public interest. Khalid appeals to the High Court against this decision. The High Court supports the decision of the Law Society and directs it not to issue a practising certificate.

Explain how the Legal Services Act 1974 will apply to Khalid in this situation. [10]

- (c) Melody has been on the roll of solicitors for five years. Having lost her job in a law firm she applies for sole solicitor endorsement. When the Law Society checks her application it discovers that the law firm Melody worked for placed a restriction on her handling clients' fees as she had not followed the law firm's rules about banking. The Law Society grants Melody a practising certificate with a condition that she employs someone to take care of the financial aspect of her practice as a sole solicitor.

Explain how the Legal Services Act 1974 will apply to Melody in this situation. [10]

- (d) Describe the education and training needed to become a solicitor. Assess the extent to which the role of a solicitor overlaps with that of a barrister. [20]
